Project Title: Shaanxi Cuisine site

1. Project overview

The goal of my website is to be generally informative about a lesser known (but not unheard of) cuisine, but overall, I'd like to make the viewer hungry.

2. Resources

Copy is available at https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Shaanxi_cuisine# as well as some photography. There are a lot of other photographs available on Google Images as well.

4. Audience

This is technically an informational site, but I think it could be suitable to a wide range of ages. Food shouldn't be a hard concept to grasp, but I think it would be at least grade level (not accounting for the lack of knowledge for different terms and spices)

5. Message

Shaanxi cuisine is dang good!

6. Tone

Since it appeals to the senses, it should feel welcoming, interesting, and the visuals should catch the eye as the user scrolls.

8. Visual Style

I think going for a clean, modern style wouldn't be a bad choice. It should be bold and eye-catching, which would match the strong spices used in Shaanxi cooking. I think the images would receive the most treatment, as in the website would be built around the color palette and placement of the various dishes or images on display.

I also plan on making the website more dark mode like, or at least not just stark white for the background. Something like red on black being a main color theme.
