Lucia, the site looks great so far. I think my main notes moving forward are going to target the design aspects more, rather than functionality.

1. Redder: I remember in your mockup A you used this nice red that I wished was bordering the website more, it gave it a more finished feel.

2. More dispersion of the cartoon guys: I know you're probably already intending to do this, but have at least one guy in each page

3. Recipe page: Instead of framing it as my (Kevin) favorite dish, just treat it as a focus on the dish itself and maybe mention that the Qishan Saozi Noodle Making Craft is officially recognized as a Provincial-level Intangible Cultural Heritage in Shaanxi. (a mix between info and dishes)

4. I could point out more little things, but I have a feeling that you'll get to them, since the interactivity and formatting is a work in progress. I just mentioned the things worth mentioning.